I r In the absence of any positive intelligence from Washington relative to the fate of the Bank Bill, we prefer to give the following article from the New York Tribune, in preference to any remarks of our own. The generat tone of the acticle we approve; and commend it to the earnest attention of our read-

"We have not seen fit to indulge in confident predictions that the Bank Bill would be signed by President Tyler, or in hareh strictures on the presumtive exercise of the Veto Power. Our impression has for some days been that the bill would be returned with objeations, but we trust not such objections as will necessarily prevent the creation of a National Bank, even at the present Session of Congress. It strikes us, therefore, that all such strictures in advance are obviously unwise, having the semblance of a desire to intimidate the President, and so far directly calculated to defeat their apparent object. Our personal acquaintance with Mr. Tyler is slender indeed, but we are familier with his public career, and have thence presumed him the last man to be frightened or driven to any step which his own judgement and sonscience do not approve. We have therefore deemed it the wiser and better course neither to question the Constitutional right of the Veto nor de nounce its possible exercise as an act-of despotiem o'-tinacy or treachers. In no event can such language subserve any good purpose; in a probable contingency it may work serious r-inchief. Destitute as such denunciation must te of justice, it is even more destitute of fore-eight and wisdom. But the President cannot, must not fail to realize the tre -ndous responsibility assumed by that man who, by an act of his individual will, lebor advocates would bear the sway, and that Actroles the deliberate judgement, the equally provion would be made for the abeliation of honest and patriotic convictions, of the Representatives of a vast majority of the American people. This is a power never exercised in the Monarchies of Europe from which we have borro-ed it except-upon sesir u-o---ujous ocescione y rarely happen twice in a contury. Tor from a .- ward for the pride of consistency merely, inflicts' deadly wrong on the great cause of Republican Liberty.

We have been arked repeatedly 'Will you justify and sustain a Veto, if such there be? The question is too vague for answer. It reminds us of the vehement assertions we often hear that a Bunk is unconstitutional, regardless of the fact that a Bank is but a name, which means little or much; according to the provisions of the act creating it. These same sticklers have no scruples at all with respect to the Sub Tressury, which is itself a bank, and, as eriginally proposed a most powerful one. In our judgement, a Veto will be justifiable or otherwise according to its character and tenor It President Tyler could possibly so far forget his dignity and character as to moult Congress with such a compound of Jacobinic cant and dangerous sophistry as was embodied in the Velo Message of 1832, we shall not hesitate to condemn it pointedly. But if he shall simply return the bill with a message stating that it rabraces semain provisions which he cannot conscientiously give his consent to believing. them unwarranted by the Constitution, we shall consider that he has but done what he fall to be his buy, and it days raing of applause rather than censure Deeply as we may deplore that the President's Constitutional opinone stand in opposition to the common sense and best interests of the country, we cannot blame him for preferring the dictates of conscience to the promptings of convenience and

But it may, possibly, be that we are to have no Veto, though our opinion is office, wise. It may be that the countenances now chrouded in boding anxiety will soon be lighted with the triumph of hopes unexpectedly realized. Shrewd men and well intormed assert confi-

A perogue is a pine log dug out and shaped like a cance, seuje: are very large and will accommodate eight or ten persons. This is one of the finest rivers in Maine for boating. there being but one interruption, at a common pitch of water, from the head of the river to its mouth, a distance of about 150 miles.

The Grand Falls are within 3 miles of its mouth, and here there is a portage of about half a mile .--

Thomship No. 11, formerly belonged to Mas. sachusetts, and was exchanged for Township No. 10, R. 7, belonging to Maine, and while is said to be the best timber township on the Aroostook.

Yourness No. 11, is a good Alling Town ship, and already contains nearly 200 inhabitants A saw and grist mill have been built at the mouth of the big Machine, and a shingle and clapboard mill is about being erected at the mouth of the Little Machias. A fine bed of limestone has been discovered on this township, Both were laid on the table. and several kilns have been burned, which have made excellent lime.

Beautiful crops of Wheat were raised in this township last year, and the fields look promising this year, although somewhat pinched with the drought, which begins to be severely felt even Township No. 11, Range 6, lying West of this is just beginning to settle. Issue Hacker, Esq., of Let, and several others have undertaken to erect a saw and grist mill under the provisions of the settling law of 1838. From fifteen to twenty choppings have been made this scason, and as many families will move on to River runs through this township rising about 20 miles to the West of it, and containing about its head water, as the settlers say, an cording to the popplation, which was within abundance of excellent pine timber.

I saw several persons who complained to me a good deal about the manner in which this Township No. 11, R. 6, had been surveyed. One of them had been to the Land Office at Bangor, and obtained a plan of the survey and a copy of some of the field notes. He said they did not correspond to the actual survey, and no dependence could be placed upon them.

mit was auryeyed as I was informed, in 1639, by a perfect greenhorn, who knew so little about his husiness that he could not run atraight line to a corner. His practice was within a certain distance, to wind some one ahead who, when he had found the corner, would climb a tree and halloo, and the gurveyor would run to him by the sound. On the plan the line would appear attaight, but on the ground there would sometime oc a turn in it almost equal to a right angle. Fearing that there might be too many crooked lines, the survevor would sometime omit to run them altegether, and only mark the corners upon the side

The field notes are a great curiosity, as my informant told me, the principal object of the surveyor appearing to be a search after water, and paying but little regard to the quality of the increase the value of property; it had already soil or the extent of the territory. I copy the raised land on the Cayunga Lake from $5 or $10 following from the field notes of these lots. Lot No. 19.

Thence N. 15 deg. E. 54 rods. Growth mix ed. South cant, no water, but plenty might be got by digging a little from all appearances. Lor No. 40.

. Lot No. 14. Thence South 16 deg: W: 45 rods. Growth mixed, east cent, water in three places.

This "digging a little for water," is certainly very important information, and the legislature should grant a pension to this surveyor, for his wanderful discovery, that water may be found in the valley of the Aroostook by "digging."

CONGRESS.

Thursday, Aug.-12. In Senate, Memorials were presented from eitizens of Philadelphia against so high a duly as 20 per cent on silks, &c. praving a duty on choloride of lime and against a duty on indigo.

The resolution requesting a list of the clarks in the land office, removals, &c., was smended so se to cover the whole time from 1839, and adopted.

The Distribution Bill was Turther debated. Mr. Lina's amendment, appropriating the re ceipts for the public lands to national delepte, was ably supported by Mr. Wright, in one of his best efforts, also entering briefly into the distribution subject, particularly in reply to the opening speech of far. Smith of Ia. In a most masterly manner he sketched the year of defence of the country, and then of his State, containing the great commercial emporium of the Union, which was in an entirely defenceless condition, the protection of which not only interested that State, but the whole Union, whose commerce centred there.

He then spoke of the extended lake coast of New York as in no state of defence, on which was situated the most important town in the -Union, of those nut on the Atlantic coast, ac gunshot of Britisly soil and without the neces. sary means for his protection. He knew the share of New York, in the distribution bill would be great, but taking all these circumstances into view, and also the additional cause of excitement with regard to McLend, now imprisoned fiere and wasting trial, he li-ld that this fund would be infinitely better employed for mouns of defence in his State than by dis-

Mr. lallmadge felt called upon to reply briefly to his colleague. He should infer (he said) from his colleage's remarks that the issue was between defending the country from foreign aggression and leaving it undefended. This was a false issue. He should be ready to go as far as any man for the purpose of defence. New York had some claim on this Government; she had given up the control of her duties, after much hesitation, to this Government, which were three fitths of the whole revergue of the Union from customs. They could give the proceeds of the lands in no way so effectual for the defence of the country as by distribution. The three millions from the lands, given according to this bill, would be worth twenty millions any other way. The country was to be defended by the abilities of the people to de fend it. This distribution would be applied by New York to the completion of her works of internal improvement, which, if they had existed during the late war, would have saved in one compaign all the cost of their construction! By it those works would be completed, and thus an agre to $50 or $60, and other property in an North half of No. 6, Range 9, North of Walds B. equal ratio. If applied as proposed amendment, it would be far too small for the defence of the country; but by distribution, they would relieve the States from their pres ont emberbaument, and enable tliem tochen the burdens of the country. If a war arose, and the States were called on to bear their share in its expense, and $500,000 were necessary from New York, one half will per cent on her property, thus incressed from distribution would pay this sum, and it would not be felt. The distribution would build by the States and the country, and go further to prepare for war than any other disposition of the preceeds of the lands
